The UX Research Intern role at Jetblack seems like it would be a great match for my background and interests. I have been developing my skills as a UX designer for the past two years, through interning at Walmartlabs Ecommerce and other projects.

At Walmartlabs, I designed a business facing tool for the Ecommerce team that helped Product Managers and Front-End Developers access and request components of the Walmart website more efficiently. I also learned a great deal about needfinding, UI design, and collaborating with Product Managers and Front-End Engineers. I also recently designed a website (desktop and mobile) for Audrey's, UCSD's coffeeshop. For that project I conducted user research, UX design, and corresponding with clients.

I feel like I will be a great contribution to the Jetblack team and look forward to hearing back from you.

Sincerely,
Andy Xia
